June 3 NCAA National Championship

This year the University of Maryland will host the second annual National Collegiate Athletic Association Lacrosse Championships.

The Terrapins were participants in 1971's highly successful innaugural event at Long Island's Hofstra University. Maryland fell to Cornell in that game by a 6-12 score.

Again this year, the eight participants in the single elimination tournament will be designated by an NCAA selection committee with quarterfinal and semifinal games being played at regional sites. The regional eliminations will reduce the field to the two potential champions who will meet June 3 in College Park.

Maryland Lacrosse History

The University of Maryland played it's first Lacrosse game as a major varsity sport in 1924. The sport was actually initiated at College Park in 1910 but only on an informal level, and later as a minor sport. E. E. Powell of Baltimore, Maryland, introduced the sport to the College Park campus in 1910. In 1914 R. V. Truitt took over and was instrumental in having the sport elevated to a Major Varsity level.

In 1924 both the University and the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association recognized the sport. Under Coach Truitt the Terps made their debut with a 4-3 win over the University of Pennsylvania and followed with a 5-3 win over Navy and an 11-3 victory over Stevens before suffering the only two shutouts in Terp History by Army and Lehigh. Both games were by 3-0 scores. Johns Hopkins 4-2 and Penn State 8-1 completed the winning season for Maryland. In his four years at the helm of the Terps Coach Truitt had a 22-8-1 collegiate record.

In 1928 Jack Faber took over as the Terrapin mentor and compiled one of the greatest coaching records in history. Coach Faber produced 36 teams for Maryland and never had a losing season. He was actually the Maryland coach for 36 years, but in 1944 and 1945, the Terps did not field a team although they did hold practice sessions. In addition, under the accelerated program in 1942, the Terps fielded two teams playing the usual spring schedule and also a summer schedule which they won.

In all, Coach Faber won 276 games against 75 losses and 2 ties. Al Heagy joined Coach Faber in 1932 and the two produced SEVEN National Championship Squads. In addition, the Terps were the runner-up team for National honors seven times in the same period. The Terps shared National honors with Hopkins and Rutgers in 1928, Faber's first year, and in 1931 were again rated the best team in the nation although this was prior to the Lacrosse Association award, the W. Wilson Wingate Memorial Trophy, which was initiated in 1936.

The Terps have met 39 different colleges on the Lacrosse field and only one, Army, has an edge on the Terps. The Cadets have won 17 to the Terps 15. Navy with a series of 23-21-1 with Maryland ahead and Johns Hopkins with a series of 27-22-1 with Maryland ahead, are the only two teams close to the Terps in series play.

While the Terps have not been blanked since their opening season, their opponents have suffered 34 shutouts at the hands of the Terps. The most one-sided game in Terrapin history was a 26-2 win over Duke in 1960, while Hopkins 20-8 win over the Terps in 1959 is the largest total score margin by an opponent over the Terps. Navy's 22-12 win in 1962 is the highest score made against the Terps.

The Terps participated in the Olympic Playoff Series twice defeating Rutgers 7-2 and Navy 6-2 before losing the final game to Johns Hopkins in 1928 and in 1932 defeated Mt. Washington 9-0, Rutgers 5-4 before again losing to Hopkins 7-5 in the final game.

The overall Maryland Lacrosse record now stands at 352 wins against 93 defeats and 5 ties for the 46 years.

The longest game in Maryland History was a 5-5 tie with Stevens Institute in 1925 which concluded three 10 minute overtime periods. Coach Faber played in that game for Maryland.

The Terps have had 6 undefeated seasons: 1936 (6-0), 1937 (7-0), 1940 (10-0), 1942 (4-0, summer league), 1955 (11-0), 1956 (10-0).

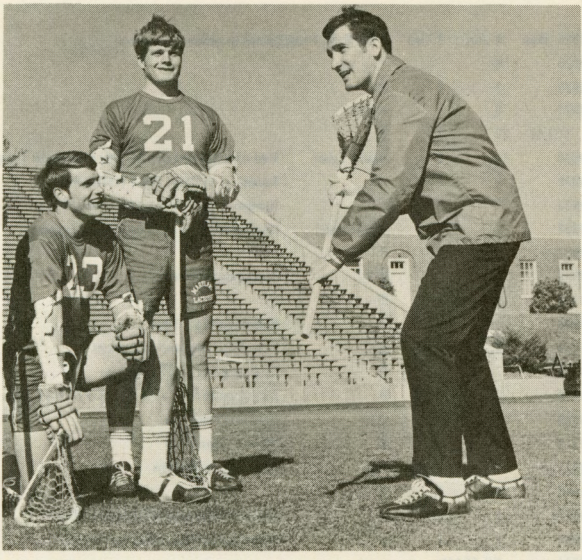
Terps look for



Coach Beardmore with high scoring attackmen John Kaestner and Dave Dempsey.

After a fast finish last year Maryland's Terrapins are looking for an even more impressive record this season.

The Terrapins proved somewhat of a surprise in last year's first annual NCAA tournament. Maryland had been ranked in the top five for most of the year with impressive wins over Princeton (19-3), Towson State (22-6), Brown (15-9) and Johns Hopkins (8-5). But losses to Mt. Washington (7-10), Army (7-16) and Virginia (8-9) led to speculation that the Terapins would be overmatched in the championship series.

The tournament started with a game against the Air Force Academy which Maryland won handily 10-1. In a scheduling quirk, the Terrapins were scheduled to play Navy the next Monday in a regular season game. The Middies took that contest 10-5 but in a return match the next Saturday Maryland came out on top 10-7 to advance to the tournament finals.

The finals were a disappointment to Maryland's young squad. The Terrapins and the Big Red from Cornell were very similar teams. Both counted heavily on strong attacks led by Cornell's Ed Rimmer and Maryland's John Kaestner. Both teams were coached by Maryland alumni.

The one real difference was in experience and this proved to be the telling factor. Cornell came out on top 12-6 but the pressure performance by the underclassman dominated Terrapins proved that there will be other title games for Maryland.

This year's team sustained only three major losses. Gone are captains defenseman Ira Hochstadt and midfielder Dan Furman and last year's leading goal getter Tom Cleaver.

improvement in 1972

These three performed pivotal roles in 1971 but the effect on the 1972 team appears to be negligible.

The nets are in good hands with the return of Bill Reilly. Reilly was the key to the late season success last year as he took over as the number-one goalie midway through the season and turned in 74 saves. Behind Reilly is freshman Bill O'Donnell. Coach Beardmore maintains that the only significant advantage that Reilly holds is in experience but that he wouldn't be afraid to go to O'Donnell at any time.

The Terrapin defense should be greatly improved over last year. Junior Tom Goucher is the most experienced member of the unit having lettered in 1970-71, but two newcomers, junior college transfer John Thearle and sophomore Steve Adamo, are the keys to the improvement.

Both men have the size to play tough one-on-one defense, Thearle at 6-0, 175 and Adamo at 6-4, 203. In addition, these two finished one-two in the squad's two mile time trials. For the first time in several years, the Terrapins have the kind of outstanding defenders to contral an opponent's top scoring threats.

The midfield should be another stronger area in 1972. Captain Gary Besosa leads the first unit and last year he proved he was among the best in the country at the faceoff, consistently giving the Terps valuable possession. Kevin Rogers shares first line duty after lettering in '71 and the unit is completed by Doug Schreiber, a transfer from Nassau Community College, the National Junior College Champions of 1971.

Dino Mattessich, Dave Hallock and Pat O'Meally make up the second midfield and they will provide much improved depth at this most critical position.

Beardmore states that this year's midfield will take much of the pressure off of the attack. For the first time since he took over at Maryland he has the players who can score from out front.

The attack will find it difficult to improve on the 169 goals scored by last year's team. The problem appears to be how to replace the 47 goals scored by Cleaver last year.

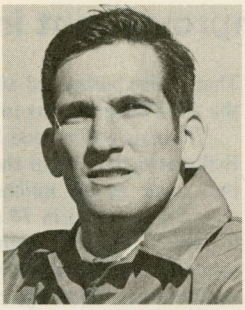
The key to the attack's effectiveness is senior John Kaestner. Leading the '71 team in scoring, Kaestner collected 39 assists and should continue to be most effective playing behind the net.

On the crease this year will be junior Dave Dempsey who netted 26 shots last year while seeing less than full-time duty. A two time letterman he has the experience strength and quickness to handle his close-in role.

Steve Demczuk completes the unit. A football player in the Fall, he has speed and strength and should prove a valuable scoring threat.

There appears to be no area which will not show improvement as Beardmore expects to be more than competitive in his third year at Maryland.

Bud Beardmore



C. A. "Bud" Beardmore returned to the University of Maryland in July of 1969 to assume duties as Head Coach of the Lacrosse program.

A 1962 graduate of the University, he served as head coach at Severn Prep for four years, at Hobart College for one year and at the University of Virginia for two years before returning to his alma mater.

While at Maryland, Beardmore was a three time All-American for the Terps. He set several Maryland scoring records for a Midfielder. One record, seven goals in a regulation game, was broken by Tom Cleaver only last year. Dick Corrigan scored nine against Navy in an overtime game with three of his goals coming in the extra period. Cleaver scored nine against Towson State in 1971 during the regulation period.

The 34 goals by Beardmore in 1962 are the most ever by a Maryland Middie. Only Attackmen Bill Pettit, Cleaver and Roger Goss have scored more in a single season. Beardmore's 75 career goals are also a career high for a Midfielder.

His scoring:

1960	16 goals 7 assists	1962	34 goals 15 assists
1961	25 goals 11 assists	Total	75 goals 33 assists

A member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity, ODK and Kalegothos honoraries and named to Who's Who in American Colleges in his senior year, he was one of the most popular players to ever perform in Byrd Stadium.

Virginia	1968	7	6

Maryland	1970	6	5
Maryland	1971	9	5
(Second in NCAA Tourney)

Rennie Smith

Assistant coach Rennie Smith joined the Maryland Lacrosse program in 1966.

As an undergraduate at the University he was also a three time All-American in 1953-55. He was awarded the Turnbull Trophy as the best attack man in the state in 1954 while a junior. That year he scored 17 goals along with 25 assists while playing with Dick Corrigan 17-16 and Whinp Wicker 28-22. These three played on the undefeated National Championship team in 1955.

All-Star Prospects

The star system is not always the most advisable in Lacrosse but Maryland is fortunate to have several potential All-Stars whom coach Beardmore has been able to blend into an effective unit.

Bill Reilly

Heading the list is Bill Reilly, a 1971 Honorable Mention All-American. At 6-0 and 200 pounds, Reilly has the size to cover the nets effectively. He proved his ability in '71, taking over the number one slot midway through the year and recording 74 saves, proving the key to Maryland's tournament success. Besides his Lacrosse success, Reilly has played three years as a linebacker for the Terrapins and the speed and agility he developed in that sport prove invaluable in Maryland clears.

John Kaestner

Another All-American is attackman John Kaestner. The youngest of three brothers to achieve All-American recognition, Kaestner has scored 66 goals and 68 assists in three years of varsity competition. He led the Terps in scoring in 1971 with 28 goals and 39 assists. While he possesses the speed and moves to make him an effective one-on-one player, his customary role is that of the feeder, a role he obviously plys with great success.

Dave Dempsey

The second attackman who should challenge for year end honors is Dave Dempsey. Last season, in his second year of varsity play, he got off to a slow start, playing less than full time and taking somewhat of a back seat to the Cleaver-Kaestner scoring machine. This year he has moved inside where he should be much more effective. Despite the slow start in '71 he finished as the third leading scorer with 26 goals and 14 assists after netting 18 goals and collecting two assists as a freshman.

Maryland Opponents All-Time Series

Army–

The United States Military Academy at West Point is the only collegiate team in the country to hold an edge in the series with Maryland.

Ever since the first game when the Cadets administered one of the two shutouts in Maryland lacrosse history, the series has been a close one. Neither team has ever held more than a three game advantage. A three year winning streak by Army has given them their current two game edge.

Last year they administered a 16-7 humiliation in College Park, the only one-sided loss for the eventual NCAA finalists. This year the Terrapins are looking forward to returning the favor.

Johns Hopkins–

Johns Hopkins has been Maryland's most consistent opponent in the 48 year history of Maryland lacrosse. The two teams have met 50 times with the Terrapins holding a 27-22-1 advantage.

Last year Maryland held on to defeat the visitors 8-5 ending a three year Hopkins winning streak. This year's game should be even better with both schools fielding improved squads.

Mount Washington Lacrosse Club–

Maryland hasn't fared well against Mt. Washington since taking the teams' first meeting 9-0 in 1924. That game propelled the Terrapins into the semi-finals of the Olympic Series but since then Marland has won only three of 13 encounters.

Mt. Washington is always one of the top club teams in the country. Usually boasting numerous All-Americans, they have consistently won or challenged for the National Club Title.

Last year the Terrapins tried a slow down game against their Club foes in Baltimore but it was to no avail as the hosts came away with a 10-7 win.

Navy

Perhaps the hardest fought rivalry in all of lacrosse is the Navy Maryland series.

At one point (1959) the Terrapins held a 21-10 advantage in the series, but Navy took eleven of the next 12 games to close the gap to 22-21. The last win was in a regular season game last Spring. In a scheduling quirk, the Terrapins and Middies played again that same week in an NCAA tournament game and Maryland came our on top 10-7. That win moved the Terrapins into the tournament final.

This year Maryland and Navy meet on the 25th of March. The schedule had to be changed to avoid a possible repeat of last year's difficult schedule in May. The teams may be rusty that early in the season but there is no doubt the game will be spirited.

Virginia

This year's game against the University of Virginia should be of unusual interest to Maryland.

In 1969 Maryland's current coach, Bud Beardmore, was at the helm of the Virginia squad. He engineered a 9-7 Cavalier win that took the Atlantic Coast Conference title away from Maryland.

In his first two years at Maryland, Beardmore has found it impossible to recapture the crown as Virginia has taken their second and third consecutive championships.

This year the two teams meet in Maryland's homecoming with the distinct possibility that national honors will be riding on the outcome as well as the Conference title. This will also be the last time that Beardmore will get a chance to defeat his former players.
